NJ TRANSIT has announced that its locomotive engineers have rejected a new contract agreement and may initiate a rail strike as early as Friday, May 17.

In the event of a strike, all NJ TRANSIT rail service will be suspended, including service to New York Penn Station and Metro-North connections west of the Hudson River.

Key Information for Commuters:

- All NJ TRANSIT trains will be suspended if a strike occurs.
- Limited substitute bus service will be available. Riders should expect significant delays and crowding.
- NJ TRANSIT rail tickets and passes will be cross-honored on NJ TRANSIT bus and light rail service.
- Tickets will not be accepted on PATH, ferries, or most private carriers.
- Academy Bus will operate service from PNC Bank Arts Center, but requires separate ticketing.

Park-and-Ride Service will be available on weekdays from the following locations:

- Secaucus Junction
- PNC Bank Arts Center (Academy Bus)
- Hamilton Station
- Woodbridge Center Mall
